INTRODUCTION.

The information and data contained in the following tables have been extracted, collated, and arranged with much care, and are derived from a variety of sources.

Among those most worthy of mention are, the files of the State and Navy Departments—the American Archives and State Papers—Clark's, Goldsborough's, and Cooper's Naval Histories, and Niles's Register.

I have not, however, confined myself to these, but have also examined and compared other American and English Histories, and contemporaneous published accounts; besides, in a few instances, have sought information from those still living.

Among the latter I feel most indebted to Commodore Charles Stewart, Commodore Charles Morris, Chief Naval Constructor J. Lenthall, Consulting Engineer C. W. Copeland, and Peter Force, Esq., of Washington, D. C., each in their respective departments. To each and all of whom, and to any others, who have contributed in any way to afford me information or facilities, I now return my sincere thanks.

This compilation was originally intended to embrace only the Navy proper, but to make it more complete and satisfactory as a work of reference, a List of all the Private armed Vessels, fitted out in the United States, from the earliest period, with their armament, captains, captures, &c., &c., was subsequently added. Some of these were fitted out by private individuals, or companies, and others by States; and many, it will be seen, were commanded by officers who afterwards held commissions in our Navy.

For similar reasons I have added tables embracing the principal Ocean Steamers of the United States, including those carrying the U. S. mail, which, under certain contingencies, may become a portion of the Navy of the United States. Also a list of the Revenue and Coast Survey vessels in 1850, which have since undergone but little change.

UNITED STATES.

UP. SOLD, CAPTURED, OR DESTROYED.

FROM THE COMMENCEMENT, IN 1775, TO 1785, AFTER WHICH THE COUNTRY WAS WITHOUT A NAVY UNTIL 1797.

While in command of Captain E. Hinman, by H. B. M. ships Ariadne and Ceres. Commo. J. Paul Jones claims to have first displayed the Colonial flag on board of this ship, in which he was the 1st Lieut. under Commo. Hopkins, while laying off Philadelphia, in 1775. April 1st. Having been chased on shore by the British squadron. Had only four guns mounted at the time. Under Capt. A. Whipple, composed one of Commo. E. Hopkins's squadron to the W. Indies in 1776. While in command of Capt. H. Johnston, by H. B. M. Cutter Alert, after an action of 3½ hours, her armament being only 4 pds. at the time. While in command of Capt. J. Olney, by H. B. M. ship Milford, 32 guns. Capt. O. and crew escaped in a schooner, having previously run his vessel on shore and abandoned her. To prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Supposed to have been the first U. S. vessel to receive a foreign salute. The Gov. of St. Eustatia having been subsequently removed for this indiscretion. To prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Composed one of Commo. Saltonstall's squadron, and was at this time commanded by Capt. H. Hacker. To prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Originally named the "Falcon." One of Commo. Saltonstall's squadron. Was one of the first cruisers to put to sea. To prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Originally named the "Scorpion." One of Commo. Saltonstall's squadron. Was one of the first cruisers to put to sea.

Probably destroyed as above. Was used principally as a Despatch vessel; and in some accounts is called the "Cruiser." In company. While in command of Capt. L. Wickes, who, with all on board but the cook, perished. Was the first U.S. vessel of war that visited Europe; carrying out B. Franklin, soon after our Declaration of Independence. Having run on a ledge of rocks, when about to depart in co. with the Alfred, Commo. P. Jones, in an expedition against Nova Scotia. Supposed to have been destroyed in the Delaware, in 1777, to prevent falling into the hands of the enemy.

66 See table of captures for the service of the vessels.

While in command of Capt. J. Manly, by the Rainbow, 40, Sir Geo. Collier, and brig Victor, after a chase of 30 hours; the H's sailing having been impaired by lightening the ship too much forward.

While in command of Capt. N. Biddle, after an action of 20 minutes with H. B. M. S. Yarmouth, 64, Capt. Vincent; and all but 4, out of 315, perished. The Y. lost 5 killed, and 12 wounded.

While in command of Captain J. Barry, after an action of 9 hours with H. B. M. S. Experiment, 50, Wallace and Unicorn, 22. Having lost 25 killed and wounded, run the ship on shore and deserted her. By the enemy. Had never received her armament.

Aug. 14. While in command of Commo. Saltonstall; to prevent capture by the British squadron of 9 sail, under Sir Geo. Collier.

While in command of Capt. J. Nicholson, by H. B. M. S. Iris, 32, (formerly U. S. S. Hancock,) and Gen. Monk, 18, after a gallant resistance of more than one hour, during which she was completely dismantled, and lost 5 killed, and 11 wounded.

By the enemy, under Capt. Henry, R. N. Also 6 small cruisers and 31 merchant vessels. The E. had never received her armament.

To prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy, after Sir Geo. Clinton got possession of the Highlands.

By the British squadron; she having previously struck on the middle ground and lost her rudder. Capt. Nicholson escaped on shore with his papers, and 10 men.

May 12. By the British squadron, at the time the city surrendered to the enemy. Was at this time commanded by Capt. A. Whipple.

Capt. S. Tucker. (Carried John Adams to France in 1778. Was struck by lightning and near being blown up.) While in command of Capt. C. Alexander and aground, by the enemy, whose blockade prevented her from ever getting to sea.

To prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Never got to sea.

Supposed to have been destroyed in the Delaware, in 1777. See table of captures.

While under Capt. Conyugham, who had previously made several captures in her, on the enemy's coast.

actually fitted out in one of the enemy's ports.

The Lake Navy, see pages 3 and 4, should come here in the order of dates.

Who loaned her to the Duke of Luxembourg, and the latter hired her to South Carolina for 3 years, for ½ the proceeds of her prizes. She sailed first under Commo. Gillon, in 1781, and made several prizes. In the following year, under Capt. Joiner, she was captured on our coast, after a chase of 20 hours, by H. B. M. frigates Astrea, Diomede, and Quebec. The Indien carried Swedish 36's on her main deek, making her, for this period, a very formidable frigate.

The last vessel retained under the old organization; afterwards converted into an Indiaman, and finally laid up on Pellet's island, opposite Philadelphia.

While in command of Capt. Seth Harding, by a British 74. Was dismasted on her first cruise; and was one of the few vessels of our Navy that carried 12 pounder guns.

Formerly called the "Deanc." Was one of the last cruisers at sea in this war, under Capt. J. Manly. Was frequently chased, and made several narrow escapes.

While in command of Capt. Rathburne; the city having previously surrendered to the forces under Sir Henry Clinton.

Capt. Green, in 1782, off Havana, threw overboard her armament to escape from the British squadron, the Alliance in co. See table of captures.

While in command of Capt. Simpson. By the enemy's fleet after the city had surrendered. Her armament consisting of 6 pounders.

Note.—The figures following the names of the vessels represent the number that has belonged to the service of this name, in the order of date.

From the commencement, in 1775, to 1785, after which the country was without a Navy until 1797.

Oct. While in command of Capt. J. Young; and has never since been heard of. See, also, table of captures.

While in command of Commo. John Paul Jones, after her encounter with the British frigate Serapis, 44, which she captured, after one of the severest actions on record, about one-half of the whole number engaged, being either killed or wounded. She was formerly an Indiaman, by the name of "Duras."

These vessels composed the squadron of Commo. J. P. Jones. They were fitted out in France, and only partially officered, and manned, by Americans. The Alliance frigate, was also attached to this squadron, but, owing to the insubordinate conduct of her commander, who was a Frenchman, by the name of Landais, she was of no service.

Was captured by the Providence, 12, Capt. Hacker, and taken into the U.S. service; and when destroyed was in command of Capt. Brown.

To replace the Magnifique, 74, lost in Boston harbor same year. Was the first 74 built for our Navy, and the command awarded to Commo. Paul Jones by a unanimous vote of Congress. Was finally captured by the English.

Formerly the "Gen. Monk," of 20 guns, captured by the American privateer Hyder Ally, of 16 guns, Licut. J. Barney, U.S.N. Afterwards employed as a packet.

Officered and manned principally from the British fleet laying at Quebec.  In the action of the 11th they had two Gondolas sunk, and one blown up, with from thirty to forty killed and wounded.  Their subsequent loss is presumed to be less than that of the Americans, which was estimated at eighty killed and wounded, one fourth of whom were on hoard of the Congress.

* Exclusive of Indians, of which there were several hundred, giving the enemy a superiority in numbers of men, as well as vessels, guns, and weight of metal.

This, to many, will appear more apparent when it is recollected that some of our vessels were armed with three and four different kinds of cannon.

The Washington, for instance, was armed with one 18, one 12, two 9, and four 4 pounders, which alone must have produced confusion during a warmly contested action.

Her captain, Wm. Bainbridge, officers, and crew taken prisoners, and the vessel afterwards gotten off by the Tripolitans, but was subsequently recaptured and destroyed by Capt. Stephen Decatur in the Intrepid, Feb. 16, 1806. See table of captures. Was the flag ship of Commo. S. Decatur, senior, in the W. Indies in 1800, whose squadron consisted of 13 vessels. Second cruise in the Mediterranean in 1801 and 1802, under Capt. Samuel Barron. Third do., and last, sailed from Philadelphia, July 28, 1803, for the same station, under Capt. Wm. Bainbridge.

Note.—The column of "Guns," represents the Rate of each vessel, which in nearly every instance is less than the number actually carried; 2d, that of "Men," the Complement allowed each; the actual number on board frequently falling far short of the allowance, owing to the never ending casualties. 3d do. "Tons." The Tonnage of each vessel, estimated upon the rule established by an act of Congress, whereever sufficient data has been found; and in the absence of the latter, the mean of conflicting statements, has usually been taken. The letter P, in the next column, stands for Purchased. The sums in the column of "Cost," include not only the original cost of each vessel, but the expenses of repairs and outfits, to adapt them to the public service at the time.

*Was originally built by Contract, one side having been sub-let to another contractor, who, in a spirit of economy, employed blacks, and reduced the moulds so much as not only to make a difference of several inches in the beam, but made the ship sail much better on one tack, than the other.

Second organization, from 1797 to 1853, inclusive.

Under the command of Capt. J. Sever, sailed for the E. Indies in co. with the Essex, Dec., 1799; was totally dismasted in a gale, and obliged to return to the U.S. Cruised in the Mediterranean in 1804 and 1805, under Captains J. Rodgers and S. Decatur. Brought home the first Embassador from the Barbary powers. During the last war with Great Britain made several captures under Capt. J. Smith. Soon after peace was ratified, sailed for Europe and the Mediterranean, under Capt. Charles Morris, returning to the U. S. the same year. In 1816 and '17 cruised on the Coast and in the W. Indies, under the same commander. In 1818 do. Brazil, A. Sinclair. 1818 to 1821, E. Indies, J. D. Henley; and last cruise from 1822 to '24, special service to Spain and W. Indies, under J. Biddle.

while in command of Capt. P. Fletcher, with all on board. She sailed from Hampton Roads in August, with instructions to cruise between 65° and 68° W. longitude, and to run as far south as 30°, N. latitude, and is supposed to have foundered in the Sept. gales. Her first cruise was under Capt. Alex. Murray, in 1799, who had a roving commission.

Under the command of Capt. R. V. Morris, made a cruise in the W. Indies in 1800; was afterwards his flag ship in the Mediterranean in 1802 and 1803, where she was also commanded by Capt. John Rodgers. Returning to the U. S., was laid up at Washington, and in 1812 reported unworthy of repair.

By order of the Secretary of the Navy, to prevent her falling into the hands of the enemy. Under the command of Capt. C. R. Perry, was attached to the squadron of Commo. S. Talbut, in the W. Indies, in 1800. In 1805 was a sheer hulk in the Eastern Branch, D. C. Destroyed as above. Also composed one of Commo. Talbet's squadron in 1800, under Capt. Geo. Little; and in the following year, under Capt. D. McNicll, carried a minister to France, and then joined the Mediterranean squadron. Was reported unworthy of Second organization, from 1797 to 1853, inclusive.

Employed in the protection of Timber on the Southern Coast.

Under Lt. W. P. Piercy.

Under Lt. E. Farrand.

Under Lt. H. E. V. Rebinson, with all on board; supposed to have foundered.

Three vessels built expreasly for the Exploring Expedition, and after a satisfactory trial at aca, were withdrawn as unsuited to such a service.

The command first given to Lt. J. Glynn, who performed relief duty on the coast till 1837. Employed as a Government packet to the W. Indies in 1838, Lt. W. H. Gardner. Do. Surveying Southern Harbors in 1840-41, Lieuts. J. Glynn and L. M. Powell; then a Receiving vessel at Portland, in 1842, Lieuts. Downes and Lewis. Africa, 1843-4, Lt. H. Y. Purviance. U. S. Coast, 1844, Lt. E. L. Handy.

Command first given to Lt. J. Tattnall, who carried Gen. Santa Anna to Vera Cruz in 1837, after he had been taken prisoner by Gen. Houston in Texas. In March, 1838, was near being lost in Long Island sound, while in command of Lt. W. D. Newman; soon after became a Receiving vessel at Baltimore until 1844, when she was converted into a Store vessel, and sent to the coast of Brazil, under Lt. T. D. Shaw; upon her return was sold.

to such a service. Command first given to Lt. H. W. Morris; only performed an experimental cruise on the Coast. Under the most favorable circumstances and a press of sail, these vessels have been known to sail about 8 knots per hour. Cruised one winter on the Coast, to afford relief to vessels in distress, under Lt. W. G. Woolsey. Was purchased for the Exploring Expedition and finally abandoned, the pilot boats that follow being substituted instead.

Having successfully escaped through the perils of a 4 years cruise in the Exploring Expedition, and while in command of Lieuts. W. M. Walker and R. F. Pinkney, penetrated to the depths of the frozen Antarctic. During much of this service was in charge of Passed Mid. S. R. Knox.

While a tender to the Exploring Expedition, and in command of Passed Mid. J. W. E. Reid, with Passed Mid. F. A. Bacon and 14 men,

While a tender to the Exploring Expedition, and in command of Passed Mid. J. W. E. Reid, with Passed Mid. F. A. Bacon and 14 men, during a severe gale; she was last seen by the Flying Fish, which parted company with her to seek shelter under False Cape Horn. Employed principally on the southern coast against the Florida Indiana, and in the survey of Tampa Bay, from 1840 to '45, inclusive, under Comdrs. I. Mayo, I. Shubrick, and Lieuts. J. A. Davis, W. F. Lynch, C. H. McBlair, R. Semmes, &c. Carried a long 32 pivot gun. Also employed against the Florida Indians, under Passed Mid. E. T. Shubrick, in 1840-41. Do. J. S. Biddle, in 1842; and with the brig Jefferson, schrs. Wave, Flirt, Madison, Van Buren, and Badger, composed the principal portion of the Mosquito fleet of Lieut. J. T. McLaughlin, U. S. N.

Was purchased by the commander of the Exploring Expedition for the officers and crew of the Peacock, after the latter was wrecked. Lt.
O. Carr brought her home in 1842. During the remainder of this and the following year, was employed in a survey of Tampa Bay, &c., under Lieuts. L. M. Powell, C. H. McBlair, and W. R. Taylor; and subsequently, until 1845, on special service, under Lieuts. W. D. Porter, W. P. Piercy, and A. Sinclair.

Aug. 26, while in command of Capt. J. T. Newton; officers and crew saved. Had been in commission the previous year on the Coast.

Congress has since appropriated about $60,000 to be expended in removing the sunken wreck.

While in command of Lt. R. Semmes, having capsized in a squall when light; Passed Mids. Clemson and Hynson, and Mid. Pillsbury, with 37 of the crew, were drowned. Was employed on special service, in 1842, under Comdr. A. S. Mackenzie, when a mutiny was detected on board of her that resulted in the execution of one of her Midshipmen. a B. Mate, and one Seaman. Licut. J. W. West, detected on board of her that resulted in the execution of one of her Midshipmen, a B. Mate, and one Seaman. Lieut. J. W. West, Comdrs. J. T. Gerry, and J. D. Ingraham, subsequently commanded her on the Home station.

Aug. 15, while in command of Comdr. E. W. Carpenter, who, with his crew, were taken prisoners by the Mexicans; the wreck was subsequently burnt by the U. S. squadron. Under Comdr. Geo. P. Upshur made her first cruise to the Mediterranean in 1843. Do. Comdr. H. Bruce, second cruise to Coast of Africa in 1844-5.

The first Screw Propeller built for the U. S. Navy, under the direction of Capt. R. F. Stockton, who subsequently commanded her, in 1844-5, on special service, on the Coast, and in the W. Indies. In 1846-7 was attached to the Home squadron, and in 1848-9 to the Mediterranean squadron, under Comdr. F. Engle; during which time she proved a most excellent sea boat, and efficient cruiser.

June 21, while in command of Lt. O. H. Berryman; officers and crew saved. Had previously made a cruise to the W. Indies and Coast of Brazil under the same officer. Was originally a pleasure Yacht; had two keels, and was very heavily sparred, drawing nearly 13 feet aft. Licuts. W. C. Whittle, J. E. Bispham, and Comdr. J. D. Knight had previously commanded her.

Was a Contract built vessel, and after three years service in the Home squadron, under Comdrs. W. H. Gardner, J. R. Jarvis, and S. Mercer, was surveyed, and condemned, as unseaworthy. Was sharp, drawing nearly twice the water aft, she did forward. Employed principally on a survey of the Coast, under different officers. (See Survey vessels.) During the Mexican war was employed in the Gulf of Mexico, during the Mexican war, under Comdra. G. J. Van Brunt and H. Eagle.

ON THE LAKES

Exclusive of those captured from the enemy in the battles of the 10th, and 11th, of Sept., 1813 and 1814, which are included in the prize list.

Was the first vessel of war built on the Lakes under the new organization, by Messrs. Bergh & Eckford, and under the superintendence and subsequent command of Lieut. M. T. Woolsey, with an armament of 16 24 pdr. carronades; and afterwards actively employed during the war, under Lieut. Thos. Brown.

The first Line-of-battle ship do. Was pierced for 100 guns, but never launched. As an exception to all the others, her name still continues on the Navy list, and she is reported in good condition and under cover.

Was nearly completed in one month. Was pierced for 64 guns, but never launched. Was afterwards sold on the stocks.

Only partially built at the conclusion of the war. Was afterwards sold on the stocks.

Was completed and launched in 80 days, and was the largest vessel that we ever had on the Lakes, mounting 62 guns, but aubsequently only 58. She became the flag ship of Commo. Chauncey, and took the Lake in 1814.

Was completed and launched in 34 days. The fourth frigate launched; command given to Capt. Jacob Jones.

Was completed and launched in 63 days, and was the second frigate launched; carried 28 long 24's. Commanded by A. Sinclair and Wm. M. Crane. In the action of Sept. 28 burst one of her guns and sustained considerable injury, with the loss of 27 killed and wounded. Was completed and launched in 63 days, and was the first frigate launched; carried 24 car. 32's. Commanded by Capt. E. Trenchard, and afterwards Wm. M. Crane.

Was not finished until 1814, when Capt. C. G. Ridgely took command of her. Was near being lost in a gale, and obliged to throw overboard 10 guns, on her first cruise

Was not finished until 1814, when Capt. M. T. Woolsey took command of her. Employed as a Receiving ship, several years after the war.

Was launched in 21 working days after her keel had been laid. Armed with 4 long 32's on circles, and 12 6's in broadside; command given to M'r Comdt. Woolsey. Was afterwards altered to a Brig, armed with 16 24 pdr. car., and given to Capt. J. D. Elliott, in 1814. While in command of Lieut. R. Winter, and all hands went down with her. * Reported to have been armed with 3 long 12 pounders each, and a complement of 35 men, when captured.

At the conclusion of the war this Squadron, with the exception of two small vessels, and their prizes, (see prize list,) were dismantled and laid up at Erie, and all subsequently condemned, and sold; some having been sunk, with a view to their better preservation.

Note. Independent of the foregoing list of vessels, there has been employed in the service for brief periods, and at different times, several small Steamers and Sailing craft, which have usually been hired or chartered for Special Service, and for the time placed in charge of Officers of the Navy, who have performed valuable service that does not always appear upon the annual Register that is published; among these, I will only mention the Brigs Advance and Rescue, that were loaned to the Government by the Hon. Henry Grinnell, of New York, officered and manned by the Government, and despatched to the Arctic seas, from New York, in search of Sir John Franklin, on the 26th of May, 1850, under the command of Lt. J. De Haven, U. S. N., returning to the same port, in Sept. and Oct. of the following year.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

ON THE LAKES.

Exclusive of those captured from the enemy in the battles of the 10th, and 11th, of Sept., 1813 and 1814, which are included in the prize list.

While in command of Lieuts. Sidney Smith and J. Loomis. By the flotilla of the enemy, aided by a detachment on shore. Received a raking shot, which sunk her in a few minutes. She was afterwards raised, and with her consort, 3 gun boats, and some batteaux, under Capt. T. Everard, R. N., entered Plattsburg Bay, and destroyed the Arsenal, &c. Finally, became a part of the English squadron, that was subsequently captured by Commo. Macdonough, under the names of the "Chub" and "Finch."

This Squadron was principally constructed of green timber, at the head of navigation on Otter creek, and, like most of the Lake vessels, hastily put together. As an evidence of this, it is only necessary to say that the timber of which the Saratoga was built, was standing in the forest, forty days previous to her being launched. After the war, this squadron and its prizes were dismantled and laid up at Whitchall, where they were subsequently pronounced unworthy of repair, and sold at public sale. The Galley "Allen," was in commission several years after the war.

Was not in the action of the 11th, of September, 1814. Was originally armed with 4 long 12's and 6 18 pd'r columbiads.

Was not in the action of the 11th, of September, 1814. Was originally armed with 7 long 9's and 2 18 pd'r columbiads.

LAKE ERIE.

ON THE LAKES.

Exclusive of those captured from the enemy in the battles of the 10th, and 11th, of Sept., 1813 and 1814, which are included in the prize list.

This Squadron was hastily got together, very much like that on Lake Champlain; the two larger vessels having been built by the same Constructors, Adam & Brown, and all obliged to receive their armament, and equipments, from the sea ports. The Lawrence and Niagara, although of light draught, were obliged to be buoyed up by camels over two feet, before they could pass the bar at Erie.

While in Command of Lieut. Conkling, by a gig and 5 batteaux of the enemy, under Capt. A. Dobbs, R.N., in a night attack, in which the enemy lost Capt. Ratcliffe and one Seaman, and four wounded.

While in command of S'l Master Champlin, by 5 armed boats and 19 cances, under Lieut. M. Worsley, R. N., in a night attack. The Scorpion, under Lieut. D. Turner, was captured by a ruse de guerre, by the same party, on the following day. The enemy lost a lieutenant and 2 men, and 7 wounded in the first affair. The Americans lost 3 men, all the officers and 3 men wounded.

While in command of S'l Master McCally, (who was badly wounded,) by the same force which took the Somers, above.

Among the first Gun Boats employed in the Navy, were the six that were loaned to our squadron under Commodore Preble, by the Neapolitan Government, to operate against Tripoli in 1804. These were 25 tons burthen, and each armed with a long 24 pounder. Add to these two Bomb vessels of 30 tons, carrying each a 13 inch mortar, also borrowed from the Neapolitans; and 3 Gun Boats, carrying each 2 brass Howitzers and a copper gun 11½ feet long, that carried a ball weighing 29 lbs., subsequently captured from the Tripolitans, and it will make 9 of the latter, or 11 of both, that were employed by our Navy during this war. The first Gun Boats built for the Navy, were under the act of the 28th of February, 1803. Nos. 2 to 10, inclusive, of these, sailed from different ports of the U. S. for the Mediterranean in 1805, and all but No. 7, (as above related,) arrived at Syrncuse within 48 hours of each other. These were long, low, and narrow built vessela, 71 feet long by 18 feet beam, generally sloop rigged, and armed with two long 32 pounders, which they carried below during their transit across the Atlantic. Subsequently, this species of force was strongly recommended by President Jefferson for coast and harbor defence; and in 1807, he recommended there should be 200 built for this purpose. To this number, were added 57 in the recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy, (Robert Smith,) in his report of the same year, who estimated their average cost in building at $5,000; and, when armed and equipped, at $11,000 each.

GALLEYS, OR BARGES,

Were employed in River and Harbor defence during our Revolutionary war. Some, that were built and employed by the Colonies, are described as being 60 feet in length, by 18 feet beam, and 5 feet hold, with 7 inches dead rise; and costing, when fully equipped, from $3,000 to $6,000 each; the larger, armed with a long 24 pdr. and a 42 pdr. carronade, and the smaller, with a long 18 pounder, and a 32 pdr. carronade. Under the former name, there were in service, in 1801, "the Charleston, South Carolina, Beaufort, St. Mary's, Savannah, Protector, Gov. Williams, Gov. Davie, and the Mars."

In 1814 there were 32 equipped, besides 59 building, in the different ports of the U.S. Many of these were employed on the Lakes; and, at the conclusion of our war with Great Britain, were, like the Gun Boats, generally disposed of at public sale. In 1817, Capt. R. T. Spence reports that he had under his command, on the Baltimore station, 3 Barges, each 75 feet long, 8 Barges, 50 feet long, and 3 Barges, 46 to 49 feet long, all dismantled, but in good order. There were also two more left on the New Orleans station. In 1823 and '4, five, named the "Sand Fly, Gallinipper, Midge, Mosquito, and Gnat," were employed against the Pirates in the West Indies, in the squadron of Commodore D. Porter. These appear to have been the last employed in our Navy, until the commencement of the Mexican war, in 1846, when large open boats, differing both in size and construction, and called

GUN BOATS.

Was driven high and dry in a corn field on White Marsh Island. Was subsequently gotten off, and cruised on the S. coast, under Lts. Magrath, Murdoch, Fanning, and Biddle.

Went down in a severe gale; only two of her crew saved. Was in the Mediterranean in 1805 and '6, under Lt. R. Izard.

Where her comd'r died. Returned to Charleston in July, 1806, where the others, similarly employed, returned, and were generally laid up. This small aquadron, while at anchor under the command of Lt. Jones, was attacked by 42 Launches and 3 Gigs of the enemy, under Capts. N. Lockyer, Montressor and Roberts, R. N., and finally carried by boarding, after a most obstinate and gallant resistance of one hour and twenty minutes, during which the Americans lost about 100 in killed and wounded, including among the latter, their commanding officer; and the enemy, whose force was estimated at 42 guns and 1200 men, in their official account acknowledge 17 killed, and 77 wounded. Nos. 5 and 23 did not surrender, until several of the enemy's boats had been sunk, and the fire of some of the captured Gun boats had been turned upon them.

Sailed from the U.S. for the Mediterranean; sprung her mast; returned to New York to refit; sailed again June 20th, and was never afterwards heard from.

Blown up by a hot shot from the enemy's fort, killing her comd'r, Mid'n Dorsey, and 8 men. By some accounts this was Gun boat No. 9. Capsized by a squall, and sunk with 6 of her crew. Was subsequently raised, and one of the last retained in the service at N. Y., 1828. Condemned, and Nos. 14, 16, 17, 20, and 21, reported unfit for service on that station, having been built of green timber.

Wrecked; the commander and 9 of his crew lost.

Burnt, to prevent falling into the hands of the enemy. Was called the "Scorpion," and had been rebuilt in 1812, at Washington.

Sunk in a gale; had previously been condemned. Employed as a Tender, and unworthy of much repair.

Dismantled and laid up; hulls reported sound; were in service as late as 1825. No. 72 not coppered.

Employed as a Tender.

Captured by 8 boats from the English squadron, armed with 3 guns, and 150 men; after a sharp resistance, and the loss of 7 wounded, and the only gun disabled. The enemy lost 7 killed, and 12 wounded.

Blew up by accident, killing 9 persons.

Laid up, and much worm eaten.

Struck by lightning, blew up, and all on board, but 3, perished.

Hull, spars, and sails, reported in good condition. In July 26th, 1816, fired the shot that blew up Fort Appalachicola, killing about one hundred of its inmates, who were principally Spaniards, Indians, and Negroes.

Hull, spars, and sails, reported in good condition.

Lost in a gale, with all on board. No armament on board.

Captured by a sloop and 10 barges, under a Lieut., after a resistance of 20 minutes, and loss of I killed, and 3 wounded. The enemy's loss, about 20 killed and wounded.

Upset and sunk in a squall, all hands saved.
19 hands drowned.

Sold for $1,825, having been sunk in Port Royal Sound the year previous, by a squall, under the name of the schooner Alligator.

While carrying despatches, was fired into and detained by the Erebus 20, Capt. Bartholomew, but subsequently released. Was also commanded by Lieuts. McCall, J. Paine, &c., and was in service as late as 1823.

Out of the above number, there appears to have been 172 built up to 1809. These were of various dimensions, varying from 40 to 60 feet, in length, and from 50 to 100 tons, burthen; usually sloop or schooner rigged, and armed with from 1 to 5 guns, and manned with from 20 to 50 men. The larger, frequently carrying 2 long 32 pounders, and several howitzers or swivels; and the smaller, one long 18 or 24 pounder pivot gun. There were doubtless some others, not mentioned in the foregoing list, that were destroyed by their own officers to prevent falling into the hands of the enemy during the last war with Great Britain. Two or three more were lost on the Southern Coast, with more or less of their crews; while others, from the indifferent timber of which they were constructed, must have gone to decay; for, as early as 1809, two were reported as unworthy of repair. The greater number, however, remaining in service at the conclusion of the war with Great Britain, were disposed of at public sale. By the records of the Navy Department, I see that 40 were sold at New York, in 1815, for from $220 to $690 each.

SURF BOATS,

To the number of 150, were ordered to be built in several of the Northern Ports of the U. S., principally for the use of our Army in landing at Vera Cruz and elsewhere. Only about 130 of these were delivered early in 1847. For the convenience of transportation to the Gulf, in ships, they were built of 3 sizes, so as to stow in nests.

Their estimated cost was to average about $450 each, but owing to the unfavorable time in which they were built, (during the month of January, and 30 days only having been given to deliver them finished to the Government,) they considerably exceeded this aum, and fell but little short of $600 each.

The object for which these were built, rendered them of but little service to the Navy after the Army had obtained a footing in Mexico; and as they were unsuited for the ordinary duties of our men of war, they were necessarily left more exposed to the Northera; so but few ever returned to the U.S.

Nate.—There are now building, in different ports of the United States, Revenue Cutters, which are to be named after the different members of the Cabinet of the United States.

Note.—The system of rating our ships—originally copied from the English—is calculated to mislead, inasmuch as some vessela are rated the same number of guns that they carry, while others carry from 4 to 12 guns more than their rate; and it is not unfrequently the case that the battery undergoes a change, while the rating remains the same. For this reason, I have added to the rate of each vessel in the foregoing table, of the Navy still in existence, the actual number of guns carried, with their calibre, &c.

Fulton the 1st, was intended more for harbor defence than for a sea going vessel, for which she proved ill adapted on account of her heavy Fulton the 1st, was intended more for harbor defence than for a sea going vessel, for which she proved ill adapted on account of her heavy hull, battery, and machinery, and her want of speed and buoyaney. She was built upon two bulls, between which her wheel revolved, like some of the present New York Ferry boats. Her outer bulwarks were shot proof, being 5 feet thick, of solid timber, and she was originally intended to annoy the enemy with hot water, as well as shot. With a battery of 26 heavy guns, her maximum draft was about 11 feet, and her speed 5 miles per hour, under steam alone.

Fulton 2d and 3d, also wanting in those buoyant qualities that render a vessel comfortable at sea, as well as a safe sea boat; for this reason, it was found necessary to reduce their batteries to 2 guns. No. 2 had also 4 large chimneys, that very much impeded her headway in heavy head winds. The hull, common to both, is of live oak; the boilers, as well as the machinery of the last, are nearly all new, and have thus far proved highly efficient, making better speed than any of the sea steamers.

The Missouri, (a twin vessel to the Mississippi,) built in New York in 1841, and burnt at Gibraltar in 1843, was also bank rigged, and spread 19,000 square feet of canvass. Her machinery was designed by Engineer C. W. Copeland, and constructed at the West Point foundry. An experiment made by Engineer G. L. Thompson to turn her smoke into the wheel-houses, proved a failure.

Water Witch No. 3, having worn out her old boilers, they were replaced by the "Dundonald" or "Montgomery" Patent Tubular boilers, which, after a variety of alterations, proved failures, and were condemned by a board of Engineers.

Water Witch No. 4, has the old engines of No. 3, with Lamb and Summers's patent boilers and feathering wheels, both weighing 22 tons; and, from an experimental trip, promises good speed.

NOTES.

- Alleghany No. 2. Old iron hull, with new machinery and boilers, the latter of Lamb & Summers's patent, are now being modified, owing
- to a failure of similar boilers on board of the Princeton. Pirsson's patent condenser is to be used.

  Vixen. Like the Water Witch, has undergone frequent alterations and repairs, principally in machinery. The Montgomery boilers, that were substituted in place of the old ones by Engineer Haswell in 1850, failed, and Lamb & Summers's boilers now aupply their place. Makes poor headway under sail alone.
- channa. Spreads 21,230 square feet of canvass, and under sail alone, with paddles removed, with a fair and moderate wind, and a draft of 18½ feet, averaged 7.323 knots per hour, for 3 consecutive days. And with the same draft, under all sail, wind fair, a moderate sea, and with only steam enough to turn the wheels, averaged 8.234 knots for 20 consecutive days. During this time the averaged 8.234 knots for 20 consecutive days. Susquehanna. age pressure of steam was about 7 pounds, and consumption of Bituminous coal about 19 tons per 24 hours.
- San Jacinto. The original propeller, designed for this vessel by Engineer Huswell, was rejected by a board of engineers consisting of Messrs. Williamson, Sewell, and Hunt, and one of less weight, (4 blades instead of 6,) adopted. The engines were also reported
- Messrs. Windinson, seven, and trunt, and one of less weight, (4 blades instead of 0,) adopted. The eightes were also reported unfavorably of. Under sail alone has averaged 7 knots per hour for several days, dragging her propeller.

  John Hancock. Cut in two, and lengthened 38 feet; using the old engines, with a new propeller weighing 3000 pounds, designed by Engineer Isherwood, and boilers by Engineer D. Martin, with Pirsson's patent condenser.

  Princeton 1st. Was built of white oak, ship rigged, and spread 14,413 square feet of canvass. Her 1st propeller weighed 12,000 pounds; 2d do. 15,970 pounds, and with the latter she obtained about 12 per cent. increase of speed. Had a single Telescopic smoke stack, that could be housed below the bulwarks.
- Princeton 2d. Built of live oak, ship rigged; some of the old apars used, and new boilers have been fitted.
  - * Where she thumped heavily for several hours, and sustained some injuries that are now being repaired in the dry dock in Norfolk.

Note.—The table of Nominal Horse Power is estimated upon Mr. Watt's rule, given in Bourne's Treatise on the Steam Engine; and in most every instance, falls far short of the actual power that the engines work up to, say from 1-3d, to 6-10ths.

Note.—The crews of the Liverpool and New York, or Collins's line of Steamers, average about 130 each. Their Hulls weigh about 1,380 tons; and, at mean draught, displace about 3,724 tons each. By a comparison of the above data, with the mean performance of the Arctic, in twelve voyages across the Atlantic, or six each way, as per nrticle in the Franklin Institute Journal, by Engineer B. F. Isherwood, U. S. N., it appears, that the average hourly consumption of (A.) coal was 7,978 lbs., or 85½ tons per 24 hours; and the average pressure of steam 15.85, cutting off at 4.4, number of revolutions 14,028, developing 2,290 horses power, and making a speed per hour, of 11.666 geographical miles, of 6,082% feet per mile; or 13.439 statute miles, of 5,280 feet per mile. The voyage from New York to Liverpool requiring, on an average, 7,738 less revolutions, and 31½ tons less of coal than in coming from Liverpool to New York; while the consumption of coal in the Easterly passage is actually greater, by 221½ lbs. per hour, than in the Western. A difference that is no doubt owing to the action of the Gulf Stream, and the prevailing westerly winds.

The crews of the Chagres and New York (Georgia) line of Steamers, average about 112 each.

The crews of the N. Orleans and New York (Windfield Scott) line of Steamers, average about 70 each.

The crews of the Havre and New York (Humboldt) line of Steamers, average about 90 each.

Note.—The declaration of War, in 1812, found the Navy of the United States composed of only 18 sea-worthy vessels, exclusive of a few small Schooners, and Gun Boats—7 of the former, only, being Frigates.

§ A British account says that a party had been left on shore; reducing their crew, in this action, to 72 souls.

§ Another account increases the number to 446. While the British account reduces it to 377.

Captured off Madagascar, May 14, 1811, by the British Frigate Phobe, 36, after an action of several hours, during which the former sustained a loss of 93, in killed and wounded, out of a crew of 470, including, among the former, her gallant Captain, M. Roquebert. She was completely dismasted in this engagement, and was soon after blown up. Her commander was among those mortally wounded, and survived a few days. Was bound to Bombay, with Lt. Gen'l Hislop, and staff, as

The E. had but 1 18-pdr. shot in her hull; the B. had 18 do., and several of her guns dismounted. Her Colors were nailed to the mast. Lieut. E. R. McCall carried the prize into Commo, R. H. Barelay Capt R. Finnis					Portland. 2 long 24's, I do. 18, 6 do. 12's, 8 9's, 1 24-pdr. car., and 1 18-pdr. car. Total, 19 Guns. All, but the Hunter, carrying a pivot Gun. While, in the American squadron, all the Gans, excepting those in the Lawrence and Niagara, were pivot Guns, and the vessels carrying them were without bulwarks.
502	Lieut. Ed. Buchan	41	94	Sept. 10, 1813 {	Off Put-in Bay, Lake Erie.	One Gun, on board of the Ariel, burst early in the action, and the carronade on board of the Caledonia turned a somerset down the butchway.  The American squadron bad the weather case; and, the
	Lient. Geo. Bignal M'rs Mate J. Campbell					wind being light, the Lawrence, which led, suffered severely from the enemy's fire before she closed sufficiently to use her carronades; and after she became unmanageable, Commo. Perry went on board the abetroit; and, for the first time brought her into close action; soon after which the enemy surrendered. At the time of going into action, there were 116 men in the American squadron on the sick list. The number
39	Lieut. Wm. Hutchinson			Sept. 23, 1813	Atlantic Occum	of killed and wounded of the enemy are taken from their own returns. Was decoyed by the President's accidentally hoisting the English private signal of the day. Was finally sold at auction, for $11,090.

*The British and American accounts of this affair do not differ materially; but in many of the more important actions, that follow, there are greater discrepancies; the British accounts, in nearly every instance, overrating the American force engaged, and underrating their own; carrying out the same principle in regard to the number of killed and wounded, the duration of the action, &c. To endeavor to reconcile these conflicting statements, or even to quote all the authorities I have examined upon each subject introduced, would be contrary to the original design in publishing these Tables.

As this was the first Frigate action during this War, and for this reason, perhaps, the subject of more varied comment and criticism than those that followed, I take this occasion to refer to a detailed history of the affair, which has lately been published in the May and June numbers of "Putnam's Monthly," for 1853, under the head of "Old Iconsides," which, I understand, will also reappear in the revised edition of Cooper's Naval History, now publishing.

BARBARY POWERS.

REMARKS.

Our treaty stipulations with these powers having been disregarded for many years, war was finally declared by the United States against Algiers, March 3d, 1815, and the Squadron here named was despatched to the Mediterranean under Commo. Decatur.

When the foregoing captores followed, and negotiations ensued, resulting in a Treaty of Peace with the Dey of Algiers June 30, 1815, and with the Bey of Tunis July 31, 1815, and with the Bashaw of Tripoli August 9, 1815.

When the above prizes were given up, all prisoners released on both sides, the Bey of Tunis made to pay $46,000, and the Bashaw of Tripoli made to pay $25,000, to the United States.

Commo. Decatur despatched the Epervier, Lt. J. T. Shubrick, to the United States with the liberated captives, and M'r Comdt. Lewis as bearer of the above mentioned treaties. She sailed July 10, 1815, passed the Rock of Gibraltar on the 14th, and was reported to have been seen on the 8th of August in Latitude 39°.4 N., and Longitude 61°.18 W., just previous to a heavy gale; since which nothing has been heard of her. been heard of her.

These embrace a few more captures than I find any where upon record, but perhaps not all. Independently of which may be added a number of places that have been taken in the South Seas, East Indies, and elsewhere, at different periods by our men of war, in self defence, or to punish lawless aggressions, in which either Pirates or Savages have generally been the principal sufferers. If to these are added the captures which have at various times been made of vessels employed in the slave trade, (which by our law is declared piracy,) it will be seen that our small Navy has, in peace as well as war, performed valuable services, and is entitled to all the gratitude that the country has been that our small Navy has, in peace as well as war, performed valuable services, and is entitled to all the gratitude that the country has been that our small Navy has, in peace as well as war, performed valuable services, and is entitled to all the gratitude that the country has a supplied to the country of the services and is entitled to all the gratitude that the country has a supplied to the country of the services are also supplied to the country of the services are also supplied to the country of the services are also supplied to the country of the services are also supplied to the country of the services are also supplied to try has bestowed upon it.

In 1813, Gov. Claiborne offered a reward of $5,000 for Lafitte's head, which the Rover responded to by offering $50,000 for that of the Governor.

Both the Americans and English were repulsed in their first attacks upon them at their rendezvous on Barataria Island, before their final defeat and dispersion by the force under Commodore Patterson.

Capt. W. H. Percy, of H. B. M. ship Hermes, and Lt. Col. Ed. Nicholls, commanding H. B. M. forces in Florida, had addressed letters to Lafitte in August, 1814, urging him to place himself under the protection of Great Britain, offering him a free pardon, the rank of captain in the English service, and land for himself and followers at the conclusion of the war, but all to no effect. He and his companions preferred assisting the United States against Great Britain in the battle that soon after followed at New Orleans, and it was in consideration of their fidelity and courage on that occasion, that they were honorably noticed by General Jackson, and received a full pardon from President Madison on the 6th of February following.

About 3 years subsequently to the battle of New Orleans, Lafitte turned pirate again, making Calveston Island, on the const of Texas, his rendezvous, and the Gulf of Mexico the scene of his operations.

Soon after he was overtaken by a severe gale, and many of his vessels foundered. One was wrecked on our coast, and another, (a schooner of 2 guns and 50 men, commanded by one of his accomplies by the name of Lafage, with a prize in company,) was captured by the U.S. Revenue Cutter Alabama, after a sharp resistance, and carried into Bayo St. John, where the survivors were tried, condemned, and executed.

Lafitte, who had heretofore warred principally against the Spanish flag, became exasperated by these reverses, and concentrating his energies for a final struggle, next put to sea in 1821, in the "Pride," a large Brigantine, armed with 16 guns, and manned with 116 men, to war against the world.

One account states that, a few days subsequently he encountered an English sloop of war; a desperate action ensued, in which it was reported that both Commanders were killed, and only 16 left alive on board of the Pirate, which was finally carried by boarding, and afterwards taken to Jamaica, where the remaining 16 were tried, condemned, and 10 of them executed, and the remaining 6 pardoned. This was probably one of his accomplices; for from another more recent, and apparently authentic account, it appears that after having abandoned his rendezvous at Galveston early in 1821, agreeably to the desire of our Government, (as expressed through its agent, Lt. L. Kearney, in the U. S. Brig Enterprise,) he shifted his cruising ground to the southern coast of the Gulf, made the Island of Margarita, near the Oronoco, a place of rendezvous, and finally ended his days in Sisal, Yucatan, in 1836.

Note.—In all of the above captures and skirmishes there were but few lives sacrificed; Passed Mid'n T. McLanahan, who was killed at San José, L. C., being the only officer. Comdr. T. O. Selfridge, L. S. C. Rowan, G. L. Selden, H. A. Wise, and Passed Mid'n W. D. Austin, and Lt. A. H. Gillespie, M. C., were among the wounded; and Passed Mid'n Duman and Warley were among the few prisoners captured by the enemy; these officers were subsequently rescued by a company of the New York volunteers, under Capt. Steele and Lt. Halleck, U. S. Engineers, before the war ended.

February 15, 1848, Comdr. Dupont, accompanied by 102 of his officers and crew, landed and fought his way through greatly superior numbers to San José, to the relief of Lieut. Chas. Heywood's party, which had been some time closely besieged by the enemy, and owing to losses, sickness, want of provisions, &c., could not have held out but a few days longer.

Cut out of the harbor of Guaymas, under a sharp fire from the enemy, by a party under Lt. Gco. W. Harrison.

Four small vessels and two gun boats, that were driven into the breakers, were destroyed by the enemy to prevent capture.

Near Mazatlan. Released as unseaworthy; cargo sold for $929.

At Monterey, U. C. The vessel and cargo sold for $9,136. Commo. J. Biddle commanding the station temporarily.

San José, L. C.; valuable cargo of cotton, silks, &c., condemned by the Admiralty court, and sold for $67,498. An appeal in this case has been carried up to the Supreme Court.

GULF OF MEXICO.

By the Squadron under the command of Commodores D. Conner and M. C. Perry.

Was taken into the service of the United States, and, after the war, sold for $4,420.

Found in treasonable communication with the enemy, off Alvarado. Condemned, and sold for $35,098.

Captured at sea.

Taken into the service, and named the "Morris." Subsequently sold for $2,800.

Taken at Frontera, by the Boneta.

Lost in the gale of Nov. 24, 1846.

Lieut. C. W. Morris and one seaman were killed, two seamen were drowned, and two seamen wounded, in this expedition.

Lost in the gale of Nov. 24, 1846.

Captured by the Prize Steamer Petrita, Capt. Forrest. Condemned, and valued at $19,000.

Sunk off Alvarado, in 1848, while in command of Lieut. S. B. Eissell-officers and erew saved.

Sunk in the gale of Nov. 24, 1846.

Burned, together with a Schooner and Tow-boat. The Sloop Desada was returned to her Captain, on account of his praiseworthy conduct.

Taken into the service, under Lieut. J. A. Winslow; and was finally lost on the reef off Vera Cruz, Dec. 16, 1846.

Taken into the service, under Licut. J. J. Glasson; named the "Falcon," and was sold, after the War, in New York, for $1,425.

Taken into the service, under Licut. W. D. Porter; and was sold, after the War, in Norfolk, for $1,850.

Taken into the service, under Lieut. W. P. Griffin; named the "Tampico," and was sold, after the War, in Norfolk, for $1,000.

Assisted by the Marines, under Capt. Edson, and detachments from the Cumberland, and other vessels that could not cross the bar, headed by their respective officers.

Met with no resistance; spiked several cannon, burnt some public property, and brought away one 24-pdr.

Burnt in the night, while moored under the walls of San Juan d'Ulloa, and brought off 6 prisoners.

Off Alvarado. Sold for $2,556.

Assisted by detachments from the U.S. Ship Ohio, and other vessels of the squadron, under their respective officers, who were daily employed in a battery on shore; where Mid. T. B. Shubrick, and six sailors, were killed, and Lieut. A. S. Baldwin, and 7 sailors, wounded. Thirty-one of the cannon, captured in this combined attack of the Army and Navy, were sent to the United States as trophies; thirteen of these were brass pieces.

Commo. Perry relieved Commo. Conner in command of the West India Squadron, March 21, 1847.

And 3 others, not named; only 2 of which were brought off-the enemy offering no resistance.

In concert with a detachment of the Army, under General Quitman. Found the cannon generally spiked or buried. Destroyed 25 of these, and brought off 35.

Met with slight resistance, from a chapparal.

Passed Mid. Pringle, and 5 men, wounded.

INDEPENDENCE	Is reported to sail best when from 6 to 20 inches by the stern; retaining her original spars, her lower masts are unusually taunt. Under favorable circumstances has logged 10 knots on a wind, and 13 knots free: "Behaves well, is a good sea boat, and sails fast, 1837." During her last cruise in the Pacific averaged 140 knots per 24 hours, for 400 consecutive days. Was beaten by the St. Lawrence and Cumberland in the Mediterranean. "Is sure in stays, stiff under canvass, inclined to gripe, and is hard on her cables: 1849 and '52." It has been recommended to dispense with 10 tons of ballast, the poop and topgallant forecastle; to shorten the lower masts, and to dispense with a tiller on the gun deck, which interferes with the working of stern guns. Has logged 11 knots on a wind; 10½ knots under double recfed topsnils; and 13 free. Steers and works like a pilot boat; has very little rolling motion; is easy on her spars and cables, and excepting in a head sea, (when she pitches deep.) is comparatively comfortable in rough weather. Rode out a heavy norther off Vera Cruz, when some 30 sail of merchantmen parted their cables and weot on shore. Is not sufficiently weatherly to be safe on a lee shore in heavy weather; but her other general qualities will perhaps compare favorably with any vessel of her class that has yet been built. "Requires all her ballast, and can very well dispense with her riding tier of casks, taking provisions instead. Steers uncommonly well; is very sure in stays, and rolls very little under any circumstances. I have never been in any ship possessing these three qualities equally with this ship: 1850." Claghorne and Mr. Hartly, of Boston; would have been the 2d vessel in the water under the new organization, but for failures in the first attempts to launch her. Find very little upon record in relation to her early performance, except in an interesting biography of "Old Ironsides," from the pen of J. Fennimore Cooper, in vol. 1, No. 5 and 6 of "Putnam's Monthly," for 1853, which will also appear in the next edition of Mr. Cooper's Naval History. Her log bonk of 1809 shows a speed of 13½ knots per hour, going free under topgallant sails; but by common report she enjoys an enviable reputation, which has no doubt been enhanced by the able manner in which she has usually been commanded, and the good fortune that has always attended her. She has always been heavily sparred, and from her peculiar build, (tumbling in above the water,) has furnished her masts less angular support from her	Boston Boston Boston Boston Tripoli Tripoli Syracuse

UNITED STATES, 44  Leagth - 175 feet Beam - 436 " Hold - 14.3 " Ballast - 140 to 75 toos. Water - 57,000 gallons, Provisions - 6 months.	Maximum draft 23½ feet; best sailing trim varying from 20 to 30 inches by the stern. Has logged 10½ knnts on the wind and 13 free, being a fraction less than may be found credited to the Constitution, which she very much resembles in other particulars. Injured her false keel and rudder braces when first launched in July, 1797, and was obliged to be hove down for repairs. May, 1813, in Long Island sound, was struck by lightning, which passed down the mainmast, and into the ward room, without serious injury to any one.  In a trial trip with the United States Frigate Congress, (the latter's 1st cruise on the Coast of Brazil in 1843,) there was searcely any perceptible difference in the sailing of the two ships on a wind, but in going dend before the wind the United States had the advantage. Reported to have beaten all of the British fleet on a wind in the Mediterranean in 1844.  In her last cruise in the Pacific in 1844, Comdr. Stribling reports that she is one of the most weatherly ships, and the best sea boat, that he has ever sailed in—rolling deep but easy, and with every little strain on the masts and rigging.  And during her last cruise, 1846 to 1849, she is reported "slow but sure in stays; steers and sails well; rolls easy, (75 tons of ballast only,) but rides heavy at her anchors." Capt. Gregory, in comparing her performance in 1816 and 1847 with that of the Raritan from 1843 to 1845, says, there is ro-material difference in the two ships, excepting in heavy weather; and when lying to, &e., the latter is not so weatherly. Maximum draft 22; best sailing trim varying from 18 to 26 inches by the stern. Performed remarkably well on her 1st cruise, particularly after being relieved of some of her ballast; sailing 10 knots on a bowline and 12 free, with case. Returning to the U.S. the steps of her masts were altered, since which she has never sailed so well. On her 1st cruise to the West Indies, and 2d to the Mediterranean, with iron tanks, and about 140 tons of ballast, she was regarded as a fair sailer, but not weatherly; rolled deep, but easy; pitched heavily in a head sca, and was very hard upon her helm, which 4 men could not always control, aided by the usual purchase of wheel ropes.  During her last cruise, with only 90 tons of ballast, she was reported "stiff, steers well, stays badly, wears quickly. In smooth water, and sailing within 6½ points of the wind, makes fully ½ point leeway." And in sailing was beaten by the St. Louis and Perry.  Her launching draft was, forward 12 feet 6 inches, aft 16 feet 8 inches. With lower masts and bowsprit draft was, forward 13 feet, aft 16 feet 8 inches. With ballast and rudder hung draft was, forward 13 feet, aft 16 feet 8 inches. Equipped for sea draft was, forward 20 feet, aft 22 feet. Performed very creditably in a trial cruise with the United States and Raritan in 1844, but was beaten by the latter under a new suit of sails, and variety of weather, in a passage from Monte Video to Rio.  During her last cruise on the coast of Brazil, is reported to have parted her chain bobstays several times in pitching. MACEDONIAN, 36  No. 2.  Length - 164 feet, Heam - 41 " Hold - 18? " Ballast - 40 tons, Water - 32,000 gallons, Provisions - 5 months.	Maximum draught 20.3 feet; best sailing trim varying from 4 to 8 inches by the stern, when deep, and on an even keel when light. Reported to have logged 11 knots per hour on a wind. "Slow, but sure, in stays, invariably getting stern board; is sufficiently stiff; lies to well; is easy, and remarkably dry; requires a strong breeze; bottom supposed to be foul.—1839." "Fast ship going free, and fair on n wind; steers and stands up well under her canvass; is easy and dry.—1840." "Dull sailer going free, and always in light winds, but dry; rolls easy; is stiff, and inclines to gripe.—1845." On her passage to Ireland, was officered and manned by volunteers out of the service. Carried out about 12,000 barrels of provisions.  Rebuilt in the Dry Dock at Brooklyn, New York, in 1852, and given a battery of 22 heavy guns. Her poop deek taken off; bulwarks reduced; masts, yards, and sails increased; the foremast stepped a little further aft; the same quantity of ballast, and about 18 inches more keel given her. Has since made a very quick passage to Madeira, and her commander reports very favorably of her general performance. SARATOGA, 20	Maximum draft 16.8 feet; best sailing trim varying from 10 to 16 inches by the stern. Originally fitted with a grating spar deck, weighing 5 tons; is reported to perform better without it. "Is stiff, but not weatherly; slow, but sure, in stays. Steers unusually well, and is easy on her spars and cobles."—1843. Having been docked after her return from this cruise, 6 sheets of copper were found to have been knocked off her buttom. "Scuds well, and rides easy at her anchors; stays and lies to badly; her buttery too heavy; mast not properly supported, and ship I consider unsafe on a lee shore, or lying to in a gale.—1846." "Fair, not weatherly; very stiff; steers and lies to well; pitches deep, and squats very much in a sea way.—1848." "Sails and steers well, and is weatherly; stands up remarkably well under canvass, and rides extremely well at her anchors; can dispense with all her ballast.—1849." PORTSMOUTH, 20  Length - 151.10 feet, Beau - 38.1 " Hold - 17.2 " Water 21 to 25,000 gullons, Provisions - 6 months.	Originally 4 tons of ballast, which was, on the second cruise, increased to 25. Maximum draught 17½ feet; best sailing trim varying from 9 to 14 inches by the stern. Has logged 11.6 knots per hour on a wind, and 14 free. Carries her guns 6 feet anbove the water. "Excellent, whether sailing, steering, working, scudding, lying to, or riding at anchor in a sea way. Sailed 63.540 miles this cruise. Was 496 days at sea, averaging 128 miles per day.—1848." Sometimes got stemboard in stays, which was attributed to her earrying the same convass on her fore as on her mainmast; the latter was subsequently increased, upon the recommendation of Comdr. M, without having (according to Comdr. A's report) produced the desired result. With this single exception, the latter reports: "She possesses the finest qualities of any ship 1 ever sailed in; rolls as easy as a cradle, and stands up under her canvass like a church; sails very fast, and could dispense with 15 tons of ballast." Also recommends that her mainmast be shifted 3 or 4 feet further aft.	Portsmouth  Norfolk  Valparaiso  Boston  Monrovia  New York  Porto Praya  Boston
JAMESTOWN, 20  Length - 163.6 feet, Beam - 33.2 ° Hold - 17.35 ° Bullast - 51 tons, Water - 25,000 gallons, Provisions - 6 months.	Maximum draught 18 feet; best sailing trim varying from 6 to 18 inches by the stern. Reported to have sailed 11 knots per hour on a wind, and 13 free. "Excellent under almost every variety of sail and weather, but wanting a little more stability.—1846." In a trial trip with the Portsmouth this cruise, the general sailing qualities of the two ships were very much the same; both beating the Southampton, Yorktown, and Truxtun with ease. On her passage with supplies to Ireland, experienced severe gales, and behaved remarkably well. "Very weatherly; works well; rolls easy, but pitches fearfully; inclines to gripe; requires a good breeze and low sail.—1848." During this cruise the masts were upright, (having previously raked aft;) several alterations recommended; and, previous to departing on her last cruise, her masts and yards were reduced. "Steers well, but sails and works badly, and makes a great deal of lee way; on a wind, under the most favorable circumstances, never makes more than 8 knots per hour; rolls and squats dreadfully, and requires low sail. Her best trim for sailing is probably by the head.—1849." Previous to this cruise, her lower mast had been shortened several feet. Carried the same sail on the fore that she did on her mainanast, previous to this cruise. Has since undergone some alterations; and, by last reports, performs "equally well, with a difference of from 20 inches to 3 feet by the stern, and without any ballast on board. 		Sailed from, &c.
VINCENNES, 16  Length - 127 feet. Beam - 38.9 " Hold - 15.6 " Ballast - 8 to 26 tons. Water - 17,000 gallons. Provisions - 5 months.	Maximum draft 16½ feet; best sailing trim varying from 14 inches by the stern when light, to 24 inches when full; has logged from 9½ to 10½ knots per hour on a wind, and 11 free. "Excellent under reduced sail on a wind; in a head sea, and with a strong breeze, can compete with any vessel. Lies to, steers and works well, and is easy on her spars and cables"—1828. With a light battery and spar deck in the Exploring Expedition, her performance was very much as above. Rode at single anchor one night on Saa Francisco Bar in a heavy sea that broke over the spar deck of the ship. With a battery of 48-inch gans and 16 32s, (her spar deck having been taken off), during her last cruise in the Pacific, in which she was 550 days at sea, and sailed 62,520 miles, her commander reports that she had behaved well under all circumstances; was a good sea boat; not very weatherly, and exceedingly wet when close-hauled in a fresh breeze; he thinks her battery too heavy for her, causing her to work and leak about one inch per hour in heavy weather, and that ahe requires no ballast. She has since been given a spar deck again, and a battery of 48-inch gans, 432s, 124, and 2 brass 12s, howitzers, to accommodate her to the service upon which she is employed. FAIRFIELD, 18  Length - 127 feet. Beam - 33.9 " Hold - 15.6 " Ballast - 8 to 26 tons. Water - 17,000 gallons. Provisions - 5 months.	Maximum draft, speed, and sailing trim very much the same as the Vincennnes.  "Has all the properties which can be desired in a ship—1832."  "Sails well under all circumstances (no ballast,) and I think there can be no better sea boat—1834."  "Very stiff (only 7 tons of ballast) and works well, but uncommonly wet and labors—1838." Many alterations recommended.  Was finally offered at public sale in Norfolk 11th June, 1852; bid in by the Government for $7,500, and has since been broken up. Maximum draft 16 feet; on her 3d cruise, left port 5 inches by the head, when she was reported to have worked and sailed well; subsequently, and during the same cruise, all of her ballast was landed in the Pacific, when she drew 14 feet on an even keel, and was reported to have "sufficient stability; very weatherly, and in all respects a very safe and comfortable ship, sailing 10 knots per hour on a wind, and 12 free." During this cruise the foremast was raked more aft than usual. "Good under most circumstances, but a very dull sailer before the wind, rolling deep but easy; bears her canvass well, and is a comfortable sea boat—1843." "Will make a better store ship than cruiser—1852." This remark is applicable to some others. VANDALÍA, 18	Maximum draft 16½ feet, and best sailing trim about 2 feet by the stern. "Sails and works badly; easy in her motion and upon her cables; generally carries a lee helm, and is not weatherly. Scudded well in a violent pampero: 1831." Was armed with 24 guns at this time; weight, exclusive of carriages, &c., about 35 tons; carried her water in casks, and although with 26 tons of ballast on board, was reported as wanting very much in stability. Lost 3 of her anchors, by breaking, in the Bay of Sisal, in 1835. Having been lengthened thirteen feet in 1848, she sailed on the following year with 11 tons of ballast, 25,000 gallons of water, six months of salt provisions, and 8 months of bread, which she stowed very well, with about the same maximum draft. Reported as sailing best when about 9 inches by the stern. "Steers easily, stays quickly, wears slowly, is very weatherly, would be stiff enough without ballast; performs remarkably well under all circumstances, but in a sea way pitches heavily and is very wet: 1852." During this cruise was 505 days at sea. CYANE, 18	The prize ship of this name was broken up in Philadelphia in 1836. Maximum draft 16½ feet; speed 9½ knots per hour on a wind, and 11½ knots free; sailing best when about 20 inches by the stern, or varying between 19 and 23 inches, according to the load draft. "Very stiff; (landed some of her ballast;) pitches heavily, but rolls easy, and is comparatively a dry and comfortable ahip; works well, but carries a strong lee helm. (Recommends several alterations, the most important of which is the removal of the steps of all the masts about once their diameter further aft:) 1838." WARREN, 18	Capacity, draft, &c., not differing materially from the other Sloops of the same dimensions. Was originally over ballasted. General sailing qualities not so favorable as several of the Sloops already mentioned, of similar dimensions. In the West Indies, in 1836, was reported to "sail best when trimmed by the head." Was converted into a Guard Ship at Montercy, during the Mexican War; afterwards fitted out and manned to cruise until the close of the war, when she was laid up in San Francisco Bay, and converted into a Receiving Ship for recruits and stores, and placed in charge of a Licutenant of the Navy. Note.—The official reports and log books have furnished most of the data contained in these tables. As might be expected, from a variety of conflicting causes, the reports of different cruises seldom agree in every particular in regard to the same vessel; I have, therefore, in all cases where there is a discrepancy, given the result of each, with the date annexed. Neither from the reports nor log books have I been able to trace a full and continuous history of any one vessel in the Navy; consequently I have been unable to indicate every change that has taken place, which, in itself, may have effected the general qualities of the vessel. Besides a thorough overhauling and repair which most vessels undergo after a long cruise, it is well understood that an active cruiser requires n complete renovation about every eight years, if built of white oak, and 12 years, if built of live oak, when a variety of changes usually follow, sometimes in the quantity, and at others in mode of stowing the ballast, water, provisions, stores, &c., &c. The battery is frequently changed; n poop deck, or topgallant forecastle, frequently added or substructed; spars lengthened or shortened; stayed forward or aft; sails increased or diminished, &c., &c.; any one of which changes may materially affect the sailing qualities of a vessel as all sailors know. Among these changes I will further mention that of substituting chain for hemp cables, and the general introduction of iron tanks, in the place of wooden easks, for carrying water, &c.; which has had the effect of increasing the stability of the ship and rendering less ballast necessary.

THURLOE					Capt. Mantle	Jan., 1758 At sea.	Encountered and captured the French Privatee Les Deux Amis, Capt. Felix, of 10 guns an 98 men, after an action of over two hours during which "300 powder flasks and 7: stink pots" were expended upon the enemy The principal of many, and perhaps the mos obstinate sea fight that took place during thi war, the enemy having lost 80 in killed and wounded, and the Americans 37 do.

Note.—The engagements and captures that took place from this period up to the War of the Revolution, and even after, were generally near the coast, owing to the scarcity of ammunition, which rendered it impracticable for our cruisers to keep the sea long.

CAPTURES.

During the War with Great Britain, from 1812 to 1815.

Four prizes were sent to Tunis, three to Tripoli, one ransomed, one a cartel for prisoners, and several Maltese were released; sold one for $30,000.

Captured, July 16, 1812, off Cape Sable, by the Spartan Frigate.

Captured, July 18, 1812, off Cape St. Mary's, by the Spartan Frigate. Had only been commissioned 7 days.

One carrying 16 and another 8 guns. Fought a severe night action. Was finally chased on shore, in Wells' Bay, May 19, 1813, by the Rattler and Bream—the crew escaping.

One, the Prince Adolphus packet, of 8 guns and 36 men, with the Gov. of Demarara among her passengers, sent to Philadelphia. Burnt one.

Burnt 14, released 1; was chased by the U. S. brig Argus, which supposing to be an enemy, threw overboard guns to escape.

Burnt 1, lost 1; off the Canaries lost her captain in a brush with a sloop of war; one prize had on board 50 men.

Burnt 6, lost 1, re-recaptured 2, ransomed 1, and released 1.

Pierced for 22 guns; captured by the Belle Poule frigate, April, 1813.

Captured by the Jasseur in Chesapeake bay, May 2d, 1814.

Captured by the Electra, 18, off St. Peter's, after a chase of 6 hours, July 7, 1813.

Captured by the Bulwark off George's shoal, 4 days out, October 23, 1814.

Destroyed 4, recaptured 1; two of the prizes were Transport ships of 6 guns each; one was the Pkt. Princess Elizabeth, 8 guns and 38 men; made a feeble resistance; disarmed and ransomed her for $10,000.

Probably the same cruiser.

Destroyed 3, ransomed 2; lost her captain in an action with an English sloop of war.

Captured by the Pique frigate off Silver Keys, April 26, 1814; was only commissioned the previous month.

Prize was recaptured and re-recaptured; see Acton.

The cargo being Indigo from Laguayra; carried into New York.

The cargo of the ship Friendship alone was estimated as per table; the brig was the packet Little Catharine of 6 guns. This cruiser was subsequently captured by the Acasta and Poictiers at sea, December 25, 1812.

Captured after a chase of 4 hours, and the loss of 2 guns, by the Armede and Endymion, at sea, August 15, 1815.

This cruiser was missing at the close of the war. Same name captured H. B. M. schooner Fox, of 3 guns, and sent her to Stonington.

3 armed, and one a packet. See Table of Actions. Was captured by the Poictiers, 74, February, 1813.

Captured by the Barrosa frigate, November 14, 1814. ? if regularly commissioned, <sup>1</sup> ransomed, 1 recaptured, and a prize crew put on board, wha carried her into Charleston, S. C. A small vessel of this name, manned by volunteers, was fitted out in Stonington to capture the British schooner Fox, of 3 guns, a tender to a 74, and commanded by a Lieut. and was successful.

The brig Emu, of 10 guns, 25 men, and 49 female convicts. This cruiser was chased on shore off N. London by the Orphcus frigate, and destroyed after a gallant resistance. The ship Aurora, 12 guns, sent into Newport.

Missing at the close of the war. Commissioned in December, 1013, with 6 guns and 33 men, under Capt. P. Southcomb.

Divested and released.

Was chased on shore near Cape Henry and bilged, crew escaping, early in the war.

? If not the same cruiser.

Out of a convoy. Was chased, and finally captured by the Phabe at sea, Dec. 23, 1812, after having thrown overboard 12 of her guns.

Was captured by the Saturn off Sandy Hook, 1st cruise, May 25, 1814, after having thrown overboard 8 of her guns.

One recaptured on our coast, Capt. Oxnard and some of the crew escaping wounded, and the pilot killed. The H. A was chased 3 days by the Salsette frigate, and was finally captured in the E. 1. by the Owen Glendour, May, 1814, after a running fight of 10 hours.

Was chased 27 times; threw overboard all but 4 guns, and was finally captured by the Newcastle at sea, August 9, 1814.

Destroyed June 13, 1814, in Buzzard Bay, by the Superb and Nimrod. British account.

Captured by the Arab, off Cape Sambro, November 3, 1813, and afterwards recaptured and recommissioned.

Chased on Cape Roman Shoals by the Recruit, and lost, November 2, 1813.

Chased on Raccoon Key by the Severn; beat off her boats, and blew up the vessel, escaping to the shore on a raft; 2 men captured in the surf.

Captured by the Spartan, 38, off Annapolis, July 19, 1812, and sent to Halifax.

Captured by the Armide at sea, August 16, 1814, having thrown overboard 10 of her guns in the chase.

Captured by the Jason at sea. N. B. There is some doubt of there being two vessels of this name.

In her passage to and from the East Indies. Reported to have sailed with 20 guns and 127 men. Tonnage 555.

One valued at $75,000. Destroyed 3.

The ship Harmony was recaptured by the foreigners among her prize crew; the prize commander thrown overboard, and the vessel carried to England.

In a 3 weeks' cruise, 3 prizes were released, and one recaptured. One was armed with 10 guns, 1 with 8 guns, and 1 with 4 guns. 2d cruise. Was captured by the Peruvian, 18, February 6, 1813.

The ship Ned, of 10 guns and 16 men, sent into Salem.

Ransomed 1, destroyed 1, and converted 1 into a cartel for prisoners.

Lost several men in a rencontre with the privateer Nonsuch, of Baltimore, by mistake. Was subsequently captured by the boats of the Narcissus, 38, November 25, 1812.

During the War with Great Britain, from 1812 to 1815.

Captured by the Nymphe, May 12, 1813. Threw overboard 2 guns in the chase.

One prize was formerly the O. H. Perry schooner; one, prize ship, was lost on Charleston Bar. This cruiser was missing at the close of the war.

Was captured by the Wolverine in 1813.

One given up to the prisoners.

Captured the sloop Traveller, cargo of Dry Goods, Wine, &c.; sent her to Machias.

Had a fight with a brig of war; captured 8 vessels out of one fleet, one formerly the Shadow, privateer of Philadelphia; destroyed 4.

In one instance called the "Leander," of Providence.

Destroyed 13, ransomed 3 for $60,000, 1 cast away. Finally captured by the Granicus off C. Spartel, December 2, 1814, after a chase of 11 hours, and loss of one gun. An East Indian valued at $2,000,000 recaptured, first divested of $60,000. Probably the same vessel as above. By some accounts a vessel of this force and name sailed out of Boston, and was captured.

Prize armed with 8 guns. The cruiser was soon after captured by the Hope Tender, August 13, 1812, and sent into Halifax.

One a privateer of 2 guns and 30 men; 1 sent in worth $60,000; 1 chased on shore and destroyed; 1 ransomed, and 2 given up to prisoners.

Sent into Marblehead, where, according to some accounts, the cruiser belonged.

Destroyed and carried into L'Orient, a cargo valued at $400,000; also commissioned out of Massachusetts, and sometimes called "Lyon,"

Captured by the Prometheus, 16, at sea, March 8, 1814.

Captured by 9 boats of the squadron, armed with 200 men, in Chesapeake bay, February 9, 1813; the captain and 18 killed or wounded; the enemy 6 killed or wounded.

Destroyed 15, and despatched a brig for the U.S., which was subsequently wrecked on the coast of Florida.

Captured by the Circe, May 4, 1813, after a chase of 19 hours, and loss of 4 guns by the privateer, which was 40 days out, and no prizes.

Missing at the close of the war.

Captured by boats of the British squadron in Chesapeake bay, April 3, 1813, with 3 other cruisers.

Sent the prizes to France; was missing at the close of the war; supposed to have been captured by the Bacchante.

Sunk ship Sir Edward Pellew, of 2 guns and 19 men; destroyed 3, sent in a brig of 12 guns, and 1 of 8 guns; missing at the close of the war. This cruiser was commissioned in December, 1813; her tonnage 252.

3 armed with from 2 to 14 guus; carried the latter by boarding; a brig of 6 guns also resisted; transport No. 50 had a cargo valued at $60,000. Was finally captured by the Spartan, 35, in the Bay of Fundy, August 3, 1812, crew generally escaping to the shore.

One under Spanish colors. Burnt one and sent all the others in.

During a cruise of 100 days, in which she only fired 7 shot, and returned with $100,000 on board.

This cruiser was chased 11 times, and finally driven on Rockaway beach by a 74 and frigate, 40 of her crew escaped with $16,000.

At sea at the close of the war, and supposed to be lost. Commissioned in Dec., 1813, under Capt. T. Holmes, with 4 guns and 14 men.

A cruiser of this name destroyed by the boats of the English squadron off Sandy Hook, March 7, 1814.

Captured by the Heron at sea, July 7, 1814.

All armed, 1 with 12 and another with 10 guns, and both with 17 men cach. May 5th, 1813, while under Capt. Charriol, was captured by the Sapphirc, 18, and company, off the Isle of Vache, and 1 man killed in the chase.

The brig Ranger resisted, and had her captain killed after a short engagement. See Table of Actions.

One a brig of 14 guns, 1 a privateer schooner (Dash) of 5 guns and 40 men; burnt 4. Commission finally revoked by President Madison.

Pierced for 12 guns; cut out of Little Egg Harbor by the boats of the Niemen frigate, May 25th, 1814. Enemy's account.

Both ships armed with 12 guns and 25 men each; captured at sea, May 5, 1813, by the Nymphe, when returning from the English Channel.

One burnt, 1 converted into a cartel, and 1 recaptured, but subsequently given up. The privateer was at sea at the close of the war.

Captured by the Maidstone, 38, in the Bay of Fundy, and burnt, Aug. 1, 1812. Commissioned 12th July previous.

This cruiser was also armed with 4 swivels; the prize was the brig Resolution.

The brig Malvinia of 10 guns, after a severe resistance. This privateer, Capt. Hackett, was finally captured by the Royalist, 18, Sept. 6, 1813, after a chase of 4 days.

Captured the privateer Joseph and Mary by mistake, killing and wounding several of her crew.

Captured by the Surveillante, Jan. 1st, 1813, after a chase of 5 hours and loss of 10 guns, having previously beaten off the cutter Wellington of 12 guns and 57 men, after an action of 1 hour and 22 minutes.

Captured by the Emulous, 18, Oct. 19, 1813, in Passamaquoddy Bay.

Returned to port with her prizes. This cruiser was 218 tons burthen, and in some instances is called a schooner.

Captured by the boats of the Nymphe, off Cape Cod, after a chase of 8 hours, Aug. 15, 1813.

The brig was the Europa of 8 guns and 22 men; was chased by the La Hague, 74, and escaped; original armament 6 guns.

Burnt, sunk, and destroyed, in a cruise of 56 days-1812.

Ship Canada, 10 guns, 100 soldiers, and 42 horses; 2 captured and 1 wrecked. May 23, 1813, captured on the coast of Ireland by the Leonidas, after a chase, in which 5 men were wounded out of 85, her crew at the time.

18 prizes were divested of their valuables and destroyed in the West Indies, and one was given up to accommodate prisoners.

Sent 1 to France, ransomed 1, and gave 1 to prisoners. Escaped when surrendered by 5 frigates and 1 brig of war.

Captured by the Sophie, in Chesapeake Bay, Dec. 31, 1813-Enemy's account. Was first commissioned with 5 guns and 41 men.

Captured by the Barbadocs, 16, off St. Domingo, April 10, 1814, after a chase of 60 hours.

Captured by the Statira, 38, off the Bay of Fundy, Aug. 11, 1812. Beat off a sloop of 6 guns, after killing many of her crew.

Probably the same vessel as the above; had an encounter with the boats of a man-of-war, and beat them off with loss, in 1812.

Lost at sea in 1813; was only 44 tons burthen.

Burnt 1, ransomed 1, and made cartels of 2. This cruiser sailed from Portsmouth in Nov., 1814, and was absent at the close of the war.

Formerly the privateer Liverpool. Captured by the Fantonec, 18, at sea, Oct. 5, 1813.

Captured by the Acasta and company, after a chase of 100 miles. Returned from France, June 17, 1813. A beautiful vessel.

Captured by the Iris, after a chase of 13 hours, with her prize, April 13, 1813.

During the war with Great Britain, from 1812 to 1815.

Destroyed 13, sent some to France. This famous cruiser was finally captured by Sir Geo. Collier's squadron, in Dec., 1814.

Captured by the 3 masted schooner Dominica, 14, after a chase of 10 hours, during which threw overboard all but 4 guns, Sept. 11, 1812. Captured, after an action of 20 minutes, by the Bream, 10, off Shelburne, Aug. 9, 1812.

Cut out of Little Egg Harbor, May 25, 1814, by the enemy-their account.

Captured, after considerable loss on both sides, by the boats of the English squadron in Chesapeake Bay, April 3, 1813.

Captured by the Heron, 1813.

One prize a transport ship of 16 guns. Voyage to China, absent 11 months. The Portuguese surrendered one prize to the enemy.

Chased another ship on shore. The prize ship Union of 16 guns, was recaptured and subsequently wrecked; and the R. was captured, off Sierre Leone, by the Thais, March 31, 1813.

Burnt the prizes.

One armed with 8 guns; sent all into Portland. The R. captured by the Maidstone and Spartan, Oct. 17, 1812, after a chase of 11 hours, and the loss of guns, boats, &c.

Prize ship "Experience," cargo $250,000; prize schooner "Searcher," a privateer of 1 gun and 20 men; burnt her, and ransomed a brig.

$1,000,000; sent most of the prizes into Norway. The R. was finally captured by the Hyperion, at sea, June 3, 1814.

Destroyed by the boats of the Forth, in Little Egg Harbor, Sept. 19, 1814, after a gallant resistance, and loss of 2 killed and 2 wounded. Captured by the Colibri, 18, off Cape Sable, Aug. 12, 1812. Was commissioned only one month previous.

Destroyed two, and gave one to the prisoners. Was absent at the close of the war.

Sent to New York.

Burnt 2. This cruiser was first commissioned with 8 guns, afterwards with 10, &c.

One recaptured second time; destroyed 2. Was captured off Cape Henry by the Narcissus, March 29, 1813.

One wrecked, crew and cargo saved. Beat off a sloop of 6 guns, after a severe action of 4 hours, and was soon after captured by a 3 masted achooner, of 17 guns, after a short resistance; had 1 man killed and 3 wounded—1812?
Captured by the Belle Poule, after a chase of 9 hours, May 11, 1813. New, just out of port.

The sloop wrecked on Chingoteague Shoal. The cruiser captured, Dec., 1812, by the Paz schooner of war; armament and crew very much reduced at the time.

One H. B. M. packet Windsor Castle, of 10 guns and 32 men, besides 9 passengers. Was at sea at the close of the war.

Threw overboard 4 of her guns in a gale, and afterwards took these prizes, carrying 58 guns and 150 men = $2,000,000. Was finally captured by the Loire frigate, off Long Island, Dec. 10, 1813, after having one mast shot away.

During the war with Great Britain, from 1812 to 1815.

Sent the prizes into Southern ports. Was first commissioned with only 3 guns.

With 217 prisoners and 3698 tons of shipping, a portion of which were sent to Newfoundland in a brig. Burnt 7 of the prizes. See Action.

The King's packet "John Bull," chased on shore on Crooked Island. This and No. 2 is probably the same eruiser.

Burnt I. The prize ship Countess of Harcourt was armed with 6 guns and 90 men, including passengers.

Commission returned.

This prize carried 10 guns, and resisted until 4 of her crew were wounded. The S. A. was captured and carried into New Providence, October, 1812.

One, a tender to the Dragon, 74, commanded by a lieutenant with 13 men; sunk both. Was absent at the close of the war-

Several armed and resisted; 2 wrecked, crew saved; 2 burnt, 1 sunk, 3 ransomed. The ship Quebec, 16 guns and 52 men, had a cargo valued at $300,000.

Burnt 3; cut out a brig of 16 guns from Demarara; made a tender of a Kingston packet. Was driven high and dry in a gale, at St. Mary's, September, 1813.

Captured by the Emulous, at sea, Aug. 25, 1812, when only a few days out.

The schooner was wrecked.

A cruise of 12 months in the North Sea; took 420 prisoners; sent several of the prizes to Norway. In an action with the T. Ship Mary, killed their Captain and 2 men, and wounded 3. Absent at the close of the war. By one account a schr. of same tonnage carried 15 guns. Reported lost, with all on board. Supposed to have run under.

This cruiser was missing at the close of the war, or had not returned from her cruise.

Commissioned Dec. 17, 1812-tonnage 134.

Was at sea when peace was ratified. Reported to have been captured off Madeira, 1815. Was formerly the "William."

The "Loyal Sam," of 10 guns. Jan. 13, 1813, the Siro was captured, after a chase of 12 hours, by the Pelican, and recaptured by the U.S. Sloop Wasp, Capt. Blakely.

Burnt four, ransomed one, and gave two to the prisoners. The cargo of one prize valued at $500,000. A Capt. O. Burns and N. Graham also commanded this cruiser.

Captured by three British Frigates, Dec. 12, 1812, after being completely riddled by their shot.

Three were released, being of little value—coast of Portugal. Cruiser afterwards altered to a Brig, of 5 guns.?

Lost one man in an action with the Ship Aimwell, of 18 guns and 51 men, which she drove on shore off Surinam, after a resistance of 3 hours.

This cruiser was several times commissioned, with different armaments—her burthen 169 tons.

Commissioned Aug. 31, 1812-55 tons.

Ship Jane, of 20 guns-sent into New Orleans.

This cruiser was only 15 tons burthen.

Captured by the Superb, off Bellisle, Feb. 9, 1813.

During the War with Great Britain, from 1812 to 1815.

Destroyed 14; dismasted 1; wrecked 1. This eruiser was also wrecked on our coast just after the war, and 15 of her crew drowned.

Captured by the enemy's boats in York River, June 12, 1813; had five wounded. The enemy lost 3 killed and 6 wounded.

While in company with the Holkar, of Machias.

Captured by the Elephant, at sea, Dec. 28, 1812, only 12 days out. Was chased 11 hours, and threw overboard 10 guns.

Captured by the boats of the squadron, March 9, 1813.

Chased one on shore, and was herself chased on shore by the enemy, off the Delaware, Nov. 16, 1814, attacked, set fire to, and described.

Commissioned Jan. 11, 1813, and sent with despatches to the northwest coast.

Chased on shore by the Dragon, 74, near Cape Henry, and burnt, Jan., 1814. By the enemy's account she mounted 18 guns at the time.

Sent all but one in. This erniser was finally captured by the Domingo, 74, and burnt, in December, 1812.

One ship of 12 guns, and two of 14 each, with 25 and 30 men. When six days out, Sept. 29, 1813, off Cape North, was captured by the -Nymphe, after a 34 hours' chase, and loss of 8 guns. Captured by the English squadron, when three weeks out, on her first cruise, Oct. 31, 1812.

Captured by the Magicienne, off St. Mary's, Jan. 18, 1813, after a chase of nine hours.

All armed. The Ship Braganza, of 12 guns, resisted 55 minutes—see, also, Action. April 27, 1813, was captured by the Lyra and company—armament having been reduced to 6 guns and 36 men.

Evidently the same vessel as the "Transit," above.

And 270 prisoners, in a cruise of 37 days, on the coast of Ireland and Scotland. Landed and took several places, and burnt seven other vessels. This cruiser was fitted out at Brest. Was finally captured and earlied into Gibraltar.

Burnt one, and released one with prisoners. Was six times chased by men-of-war of the enemy, and at one time surrounded.

Burnt-the Sloop Venus, of Jamaica.

The Privateer Retaliation, of 5 guns and 20 men, taken by surprise by this vessel, fitted out for the express purpose, and not commissioned.

One a Brig, of 14 guns; burnt 7. Was attacked by two armed boats off Long Island; killed the officer in command, and captured one of the boats, with 8 men.

Captured by the Iris, at sea, in January, 1813, after a chase of 30 hours.

A Brig, of 10 guns-sent to Savannah. The Privateer "Divided we Fall" cruising in company.

Prize to the Privateer Diomede. Captured the L. M. Ship Hero, after an action of 20 minutes; divested her of valuables, and gave her to prisoners, Captured by the Barbadoes, 32, off St. Bartholomews, Feb. 15, 1815.

Captured by the Superb and Pyramus, April 15, 1813. Had sent the prize Ship "Victory," of 12 guns, into Camden, Me.

Also one of this name commissioned in Massachusetts, in 1813, of 214 tons, 4 guns, and 17 men, under Capt. N. Barker.

Captured by the Nymphe, at sea, April 20, 1813.

Captured by the Curlew, 18, at sea, March 26, 1813. This cruiser was pierced for 22 guns.

{ Prize Ship Francis, 10 guns, 35 men, and 121 convicts, released. One Schooner wrecked. Threw overboard 11 guns to escape from a Frigate, off Fayal.

The Swedish Brig Janstoff, enemy's goods—sent to Plymouth.

When only 18 days at sea, captured by the Schooner Bream, 10, after a chase of 9 hours, June 9, 1813. Schooner Eclipse. Lost on Rockaway Beach. Reported captured by the Poictiers, 74, Nov. 3, 1812.

A Brig was also captured by a Whale Boat, and carried into Portland—the latter upon the deck of the former.

This cruiser was also commissioned out of Philadelphia.

Destroyed eight, and converted three into cartels. Had an action with a Packet, of 14 guns, and was chased by an Algerine Frigate.

Sent all in. Was captured at sea by the Shannon, 50, Oct. 11, 1812. Was first commissioned with only one gun, as the "Wiley Reynard."

The most successful cruiser during this war. Made five cruises; fought several battles, and sent in most of the prizes to northern ports. Captured by the Peruvian, 18, off Sembrero, Oct. 24, 1812, when one month out. Had made a short cruise under Capt. Stanwood. Captured by the Frigate Severn, at sea, May 1, 1814, when 20 days out.

{ Prize Ship Coromandel, 2 guns and 66 men. Do. Brig William, 10 guns and 14 men. Released one, with prisoners, and sent the others in. Lost four men, guns and anchors, in a severe gale, on her second cruise.

All armed, with from 6 to 12 guns each; 1 = $200,000. Was finally captured by the English squadron, at sea, July 17, 1813, and sent to Halifax.

Converted into a torpedo boat, March 21, 1814.

Ship Invincible, 16, and Packet Ann, 10. The former was recaptured the fourth time. This Privateer, while chased by the La Hague, 74, off Halifax, in July, 1813, was blown up by her 1st Lieutenant, Johnson, who had been taken prisoner in the old Teazer, and 30 out of 37 souls perished. Had previously been chased into Halifax by the Sir J. Sherbroke, and finally escaped by hoisting English colors. Formerly a Livernool packet.

One Schooner lost off Ocracoke; two vessels ransomed. Had a cruise of 170 days, and was absent at the close of the war.

hile on her passage from France to the United States was captured by the Pyramus and Belle Poule, at sea, April 20, 1813. Commission surrendered.

ADMINISTRATION

OF

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

THE FIRST LEGISLATION OF CONGRESS IN REGARD TO THE NAVY,

1775, Oct, 13, directed that one vessel of 10 guns, and another of 14 guns, be equipped as national cruisers. At the same time a law was passed establishing a "Marine Committee," consisting of Messrs. John Adams, John Langdon, and Silas Dean—the place of Mr. Adams being afterwards supplied by Mr. Gadsden. 'This Committee was chosen by Congress from their own members, and given control of all Naval matters.

Several changes and modifications followed, and in

- 1776, Nov., a "Continental Navy Board," consisting of three competent persons, was appointed subordinate to the above Committee. The latter was subsequently divided into an "Eastern Board," and "Board of the Middle District."
- 1779, Oct. 28. A "Board of Admiralty" was established, consisting of three commissioners, who were not in Congress, and two that were, who were given control of all Naval and Marine affairs.
- 1781, Feb. 7th. Alexander McDougall, a Major General, who had been a Seaman in his youth, was appointed "Secretary of Marine," with all the duties and powers previously confided to the Board of Admiralty.
- 1781, Aug. An "Agent of Marine" was appointed to supersede all Agents, Boards, or Committees, previously established by law. The duties of this office subsequently devolved on the "Superintendent of Finances," who was the celebrated Robert Morris.

Legislation here efosed upon this branch of the service, until

- 1789, Aug. 7, when a law was passed placing the Navy under the control of the Secretary of War, where it remained until
- 1798, April 30, when a Navy Department was established at the Seat of Government, with a "Secretary of the Navy," (Benjamin Stoddert,) at its head; to which was added,
- 1815, Feb. 7, a "Board of Commissioners," composed of Captains of the Navy, subject to appointment by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States. In the place of this Board, the law of
- 1842, Aug. 31, established the following Bureaus, to be attached to the Navy, Department:

ORGANIZATION OF 1842.

- 1. A Bureau of Navy Yards and Docks.
- 2. A Bureau of Construction, Equipment, and Repair.
- 3. A Bureau of Provisions and Clothing.
- 4. A Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography.
- 5. A Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

For the Chiefs of these Bureaus the law specified that a Captain in the Navy should be appointed to the 1st and 4th; a skilful Naval Constructor to the 2d; a Surgeon in the Navy to the 5th; and the 3d was left open, with a proviso that the incumbent should receive a salary of $3,000 per annum. In regard to the 2d*, Secretary Upshur remarks: "In providing a Chief for the Bureau of Construction, Equipment, and Repair, the alternative was between a Naval Captain qualified to equip, and a Naval Constructor qualified to build and repair;" and adds, "I did not hesitate to prefer the former, and the place is filled by a member of the late Board of Navy Commissioners."

An officer of this grade continued at the head of this Bureau, with a Naval Constructor and Chief Engineer attached to the same, until the 1st of July, 1853, when a subsequent law took effect, disqualifying a Captain for this position, and leaving it open for the Secretary of the Navy again to select from any other grade or position, "a skilful Naval Constructor." The result has finally been a selection of an old experienced Naval Constructor.

The 3d, or Bureau of Provisions and Clothing, was originally given to a Civilian, the former Secretary of the Board of Navy Commissioners; and at his death, to a Captain in the Navy; subsequently to a Citizen; and finally to a Purser in the Navy, who is the present incumbent.

*Two Bureaus, in a spirit of economy, having been merged into one, without altering the original wording of the bill contemplating a division into two, has created the legislation and change that has followed.

HISTORICAL AND COMPARATIVE.

History informs us that vessels were built, fleets organized, and naval battles fought for the supremacy of Empire six hundred years before our Saviour's advent upon earth.

Vessels, however, at this early period, and for the thousand years that followed, are represented as open boats or undecked vessels, varying from one to fifty tons, the larger only fitted with a mast, yard, and sail, which was used when the wind was fair; at other times they, like the smaller, were propelled by oars and paddles; one of the latter usually serving in the place of the modern rudder to guide or steer the vessel.

Without going farther back than our ancestors who peopled Albion during the Anglo Saxon period, we find that vessels were then classed as "Ships," "Ceols," "Hulks," "Ascs," and "Boats," which, to the number of several thousands, sometimes constituted the Navy of Great Britain. And as early as A. D. 875, was commanded in person by King Alfred, the "Sailor King," who led to victory against the Danes.

So early did Great Britain feel her supremacy upon the Ocean, (which to the present time she has enjoyed with but few checks,) that Canute, "who was elected King by the fleet" in 1014, seating himself upon the sea shore, and addressing the flowing tide with an air of authority, said: "Thou, O sea, art subject to me, as is the land on which I sit; nor is there any one therein who dare resist my commands."

Likewise, during the subsequent reign of King John, who is now, I believe, regarded as the actual founder of the British Navy, this idea of supremacy was confirmed by a law, passed A. D. 1200, enjoining every ship that met the King's fleet at sea to lower her sails; a custom that has not entirely gone out of fashion to this day.

During this period vessels were classed as "Great Ships," "Long Ships," "Galleys," "Sornecks," "Nascellas, or Navaculas," "Passerettes," "Coqs," and "Barges." And although the largest of these in the English Navy had but one mast, it appears that, but nine years previous, King Richard, while at the head of his fleet, and crossing the Mediterranean to Palestine, encountered, captured, and sunk a large Turkish ship of three masts, whose enormous dimensions very much excited the wonder and admiration of the English, some of whom called her a "Droman," and others a "Buss," and all agreed that she was not only a "marvellous ship," but the "Queen of ships." And inasmuch as she is represented to have had on board 1500 souls, she must have approached nearer to the size of modern built vessels than any that were constructed in England for many years subsequent.

Of the varied changes that have since taken place in the size, construction, rig, and classification of vessels, it is not intended here to discuss nor exemplify, further than has been demonstrated by these tables for a very brief period. Suffice it to say, that from the period last mentioned on to the present, ships have gone on increasing in size and perfection; their batteries, or number and calibre of their guns, keeping pace with their increased dimensions, and their models varying to suit the prevailing opinion of the age, until, by way of comparison, a line of battle ship at the present day may be regarded as superior in force to any of the ancient flects.

And yet it would be presumption in any of the present generation to suppose that we have yet arrived at any thing like perfection in the art of ship building; for it will hardly be questioned, that, during the comparatively brief period embraced in this compilation, in which we claim to have had a Navy, the greatest changes in ship building have been witnessed; while those who regard steam power as in its infancy, are looking forward to still greater changes in the next fifty years. Already it is proposed to build a steam vessel in New York that shall be 500 feet long by 80 feet beam, that will attain a speed of 30 miles per hour.
